FARM BILL IN SENATE FAILS

Measure Would Have Extended Authority of Co-operative Groups

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, April 29.—Farm interests, which usually exercise strong influence in the Ohio house of representatives, found today that their support had been pierced.
A bill to expand the authority of agricultural cooperatives, chiefly the Farm Bureau, was killed last night after they had been assailed as "selfish" organizations seeking "to drive the independent business man out of business."

The criticism came from Rep. Ralph Siferd (R-Auglaize), who contended the cooperatives were trying to "engage in any and all kinds of business" under a warm measure of Rep. William D. Radcliff (R-Pickaway).
The house first adopted, 44 to 23, an amendment nullifying the bill; then, on a standing vote, tabled the whole measure.

Scan Appropriation
Meanwhile, the senate received the biennial appropriation bill from its finance committee and leaders arranged to bring it up for a vote tomorrow.

The measure carries $352,345,000 for operation of the state government in 1941-42, an increase of $477,700 over the amount approved by the house.
The committee took $1,000,000 from the state emergency fund, for which the house had put in for relief emergencies, and gave it to the five state universities for building improvement. The bill carries another appropriation of $18,500,000 for relief, however.
The university increase was divided as follows: Ohio State $540,-

Ninety Billion National Debt Predicted By Jesse Jones

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 29.—Jesse Jones forecast today that the national debt would mount to at least $90,000,000,000, and declared "we have not yet made any sacrifices."
"But they are in store for us, plenty of them," the secretary of commerce added in an address prepared for the annual convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce.
"A few months ago we were worrying about whether we could afford to increase government borrowing authority above $45,000,000,000," Jones recalled. "It seems probable now that it will grow to at least double that amount, even allowing for paying as much of this extraordinary cost as our economy can stand from current taxes."
"Frankly, it has never occurred to me that we could not carry a national debt equal to a year's income, and as we build the national income we can carry more debt."
"But whatever amount we have to borrow, we must commence to pay back the day the emergency is over."

GOVERNOR STUDIES GUARD PERSONNEL

Bricker Countermands Set-up Announced Yesterday by Adjutant

COLUMBUS, April 29.—Personal and physical makeup of the new Ohio state guard remained in doubt today after Gov. John W. Bricker countermanded a setup announced by Acting Adj. Gen. Roland B. Lee.

The governor termed Lee's assignment of officers "unauthorized" and said the new military group, created to replace the Ohio National Guard now in federal service at Camp Shelby, Miss., would be formed as soon as a state commander and a new adjutant general to succeed the late Gilson D. Light were chosen. He did not indicate whether the two positions would be filled by the same man.
Lee's announcement, described as a misunderstanding, gave the location of various units comprising the guard, which will consist of 2,000 men and 140 officers.
Governor Bricker said he "presumed" many of them finally would be designated as Lee announced.
The governor said he first learned of Lee's announcement yesterday as he walked through the adjutant general's office on his way to lunch and Lee informed him of the action.
"I told him to kill it right away," the governor said, "because I had not been consulted."

GERMAN GUNS BLAST AWAY AT BRITAIN

Batteries On French Side Of Channel Open Up; British Return Fire

SPEEDBOATS CLASH IN CHANNEL FIGHT

Nazi Action believed "Feeler" Stabs of Invasion Tactics

(By Associated Press)
A battle between British and German speedboats, attacking along the southeast "invasion" coast of England, was reported today as Nazi long-range guns on the French coast unleashed the heaviest cross-channel bombardment of the war.

The twin actions may have been "feeler" stabs of the type likely to become general in an invasion attempt.

DNB, the official German news agency, declared several British speedboats were damaged in the clash.

Apparently, however, Hitler's long awaited storming of the British Isles was not in the immediate offing. It was pointed out in London yesterday that the RAF had not concentrated recently in bombing German-held ports across the channel. This would indicate that the RAF had not found any new massing of German troop barges.

In the Balkans, Hitler's war machine—undefeated on land—was reported girding for an assault on the island of Crete, 75 miles south of the Greek mainland, in what might be a full-dress rehearsal for an attempt to invade England.

The island—legendary birthplace of Zeus, ancient Greek god of thunder and ruler of the skies—is the new governmental seat of King George II, who fled Athens last Wednesday.

Base For British
It also serves as a British base, and presumably part of the British expeditionary force has landed there in its flight from the Grecian peninsula.

DNB, the official German news agency, asserted that five British ships totalling 18,500 tons were sunk by Nazi dive-bombers yesterday in passage between the Greek mainland and Crete.

As German long-range guns hurled shells for more than four hours into the Dover area—possible invasion gateway—RAF bombers dashed across the channel at the height of the shelling, and heavy explosions along the French coast from Boulogne to Cap Gris Nez indicated they were pounding the Nazi gun emplacements.

At its narrowest point, from Dover to Calais, the strait is 21 miles wide.

In North Africa, Premier Mussolini's high command reported, German and Italian scouting troops inflicted heavy losses on the British in fighting around Salum, just inside the Egyptian frontier from Libya.

LONDON, April 29.—The RAF raided the Nazi battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau at Brest last night for the 12th time in a month and a well-informed source said the vessels still were in the French port because they were so badly damaged the German's couldn't move them.

Occupational Deferment Requests Are Honored

COLUMBUS, O., April 29.—Lieut. Col. Chester W. Goble, State Selective Service director, today said Ohio draft officials were "co-operating wholeheartedly" in the national defense program by pursuing what he described a lenient policy in granting occupational deferments.

Citing an accumulative survey covering operations up to April 1, Goble said more than 70 per cent of those seeking deferment on the ground their jobs are vital to defense have been placed in class 2-A, temporarily deferred. Of 12,097 requests for such deferment, 8,699 have been honored, with 3,398 workers claiming to hold essential positions placed in the 1-A category, subject to immediate call, he said.

F. D. R. On Radio

Testifying before a senate committee investigating the coal stoppage, John L. ## WHAT TIME IS IT? QUERY VALLEY FOLK STUEBENVILLE, April 29.—Stuebenville's 37,586 residents are in a squirrely-whirl over the time today.

Most of the merchants have adopted daylight saving time. The residential section is sticking to Eastern Standard figures.

The factories have moved clocks ahead an hour, but schools, theaters and small business houses have refused to tinker with their time-pieces.

City officials are expected to untangle the mess with legislation.

EAST LIVERPOOL, April 29.—A movement for adoption of daylight saving time is under way here.

One argument advanced by proponents of the idea is that several hundred East Liverpool workers are employed in the nearby steel towns of Midland, Pa., and Weirton, W. Va., which have moved clocks ahead one hour.

LINDBERGH IS NOW OUT OF AIR CORPS

Flier's Resignation Is Accepted Today by War Department

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 29.—The War department announced today that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's resignation as a Reserve Air Corps officer had been accepted.

The famous flier had written President Roosevelt he was tendering his resignation because the President's comments on him at a press conference last Friday left "no honorable alternative."

While it has been the War department's policy not to accept resignations from Reserve officers during the emergency period, Secretary Simson possessed discretionary power to act favorably of unfavorably on it.

In the conference the President compared with flier and other persons who predicted defeat of Britain by Germany to the Copperheads of the Civil War. The term was applied to Northerners who believed the Union army incapable of victory.

Soldier Arrested After Route 62 Auto Collision

Ted Scott, Salem soldier at Camp Lee, Va., was fined $50 and costs last night when he pleaded guilty before Mayor George Wilson at Canfield on a charge of hit-skip in connection with a traffic accident.

Scott, whose leave from camp expires today, was jailed in default of payment of the fine.

The state highway patrol charged that Scott's car struck another machine driven by William E. Nagel, 20, of Youngstown, on Route 62, two and a half miles north of Salem at midnight Saturday and then failed to stop.

William Mayhew, 24, of Ambbridge, Pa., arrested by the patrol on a charge of speeding, was fined $100 and costs last night by Justice Earl Spaulding at East Palestine.

Farmers Urged to File Wheat Allotment Papers

Requests should be sent to the Columbiana County Agricultural Conservation association, Peoples State bank building at Lisbon.

U.S. NEAR WAR, JAPAN CLAIMS

Nipponese Newspapers Attack America's Patrol Of Atlantic

(By Associated Press)
TOKYO, April 29.—The newspaper Kokumin declared today the United States decision for extended patrol of Atlantic waters of the western hemisphere "means the United States is but a step from entering the war."

The United States Navy is taking care of this route to England, which should be the work of the British Navy," Kokumin said.

"No one can deny this," "This also means conflict will begin between the United States and Germany."

The Times Advertiser, controlled by the Japanese foreign office, carried a headline "War Worry Causes General Price Drop" over a story which said "concern is felt on the market that the United States at last is bracing up to take a catastrophic plunge into the European war, and this caused a wholesale fall in stocks."

The Times Advertiser said in an editorial that the possibility of peace rests upon the United States and added:

"Hence, the United States holds the power of decision, and a grave responsibility rests upon President Roosevelt's shoulders in this critical hour."

The editorial was based upon the idea "the British people cannot fight on alone."

The usually temperate newspaper Asahi described the United States as "going headlong into war."

Since Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka's return from Rome, Berlin and Moscow, he has confined himself to praise of conditions he found in Germany and Italy and discussion of benefits of the Japanese-Soviet pact, but rarely has mentioned the United States.

During the dinner Mrs. Clara Thompson entertained with a vocal solo. Brief talks were made by the women present.

Thursday Set For Return Of Men To Jobs

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The United Mine Workers' union today announced that soft coal production would be resumed Thursday morning in the nation's bituminous fields, shut down since April 1 in a dispute over a new wage contract.

The announcement was made by a spokesman for Union President John L. Lewis after he had discussed with his district presidents in the Appalachian coal area the decision of southern producers last night to accept President Roosevelt's proposal to reopen the mines.

The union said it had received the notice from L. Ebersole Gaines, chairman of the southern producers' group, that the latter was willing to negotiate a new two-year agreement with the miners' union, to be made retroactive to the date of resumption of coal production.

The end of the month-old deadlock was buoyant news to worried defense officials, for it promised speedy replenishment of the dwindling fuel supplies which threatened to cause major curtailment of arms production in vital defense plants.

The soft coal mines in the eight state Appalachian area and outlying districts which produce approximately 11,000,000 tons a week, were expected to go back into production as soon as John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers' union and the northern and southern producers can complete the details for getting miners back into the pits.

Mines Shut Nearly Month
The break in the coal wage controversy which has kept the mines shut since April 1 came late last night when Presidential Secretary Stephen Early announced that the southern operators had accepted a proposal by the President to reopen the southern mines and negotiate a wage agreement with the UMW on a retroactive basis to the date of resumption.

COLUMBUS, April 29.—Some 25,000 Ohio miners can be sent back into the pits within two days' time, state officials of the United Mine Workers organization said today as they awaited official word from Washington on the reported wage-contract agreement.

The decision of the southern operators to put a $1 a day wage boost into effect at once—raising the southern rate to $6.09—provided a surprise to most of the mine union officials since the President had not asked for any wage change in his back-to-work proposal a week ago.

The decision of the southern operators was reached after a night conference which followed a visit with Commerce Secretary Jesse Jones and a senate committee inquiry into the cause of the mine shutdown.

As one operator explained it, the commerce chief told the southern producers bluntly that "something has to be done and done quickly."

The northern producers and the UMW, already in agreement on a new $7 a day wage scale, had announced their readiness a week ago to accept the President's reopening plan, which provided that the northern mines reopen on the basis of the agreement already worked out.

Southern operators explained that they voted to put the $1 a day wage boost into effect immediately by saying that it would reduce their contingent liability if and when further negotiations with the union should result in a higher wage rate and thus higher production costs.

The union is aiming for a $7 a day basic wage in southern mines to match the $7 rate granted by northern producers, and thus wipe out a 40-cent differential which has been one of the major stumbling blocks to the completion of a two-year wage agreement covering all soft coal mining. Under the contract which expired April 1, the north paid $6 a day.

UNCLE SAM WALKS A BEAT

There is a distinction between maintaining a patrol and a convoy system. It is now plain that the United States hopes to take advantage of the distinction to assure safer passage of vessels bound for Britain without openly risking an outbreak of belligerence between itself and Germany.

The United States will "walk a beat," so to speak, over a large area of the north Atlantic. It will do this in the name of national defense, in accordance with the credo that hemispheric security demands exclusion of belligerence from the area an airplane flying 333 miles an hour can encompass in three hours—approximately a thousand miles outward from the farthest point where the United States maintains a base. This credo was made public last week by Mayor LaGuardia of New York City, speaking as chairman of the permanent defense commission for Canada and the United States.

The purpose of the patrol will be to warn shipping of menaces to its safety. If a submarine is sighted—the area concerned is too far from Europe for bombers—that information will be made known to all interested vessels. Since a submarine's rate of speed usually is not much faster than that of a slow merchant ship, this will enable a ship to keep out of the way of at least the submarines spotted by the United States patrol. It will be the application of a theory of sea security made possible by development of long-range airplanes, a theory that may supplant the convoy system, whereby a fighting ship undertakes the protection of a group of merchant vessels after—not before—they are attacked.

It also will be a direct answer to one of Great Britain's supply problems. When Prime Minister Churchill reported to the house of commons on April 9, he spoke gravely of the menace of U-boats and surface raiders ranging "ever farther to the westward, ever nearer to the shores of the United States." What Mr. Churchill meant was that the British navy, already spread thin, could not find enough vessels to protect ships bound for Britain. By innuendo, he was inviting the United States to aid the British by taking one more step short of war.

The United States still is a long way from the naval policy that made its participation as a belligerent in World War I inevitable. It has not yet reasserted its traditional claim to freedom of the seas in wartime, which thrust it into direct conflict not only with Germany but with Great Britain during the last war. Its merchantmen and sailors are not yet being sunk by unrestricted submarine warfare. Perhaps that may come later, but there is no sign of it yet.

There is, of course, no doubt anywhere—least of all in Germany—that if the patrol scheme does what it is supposed to do, reprisals will follow. The outcome of Germany's bid for domination depends on ability to defeat Great Britain; the defeat of Great Britain depends on ability to maintain a counterblockade that will keep the British from obtaining the help they must get from the United States.

It is likely, in view of the fact the patrol system is an exercise of naval power, that the form which reprisals will take will be some move to keep the naval strength of the United States from being exercised fully in the north Atlantic area. There comes to mind immediately the possibility of Germany calling into play its agreement with Japan. That clearly is one of the risks of taking responsibility for patrolling a greater area of the north Atlantic than has been covered previously by the neutrality patrol, though it may be difficult for Germany to convince Japan that the patrol constitutes an attack on Germany, the condition specified in the agreement for making it effective.

TALKING POINT

In connection with the trouble pending between General Motors Corp. and United Automobile Workers, perhaps as concise a talking point as could be raised over the closed shop issue was raised by Charles E. Wilson, corporation president, in a recent press conference.

Asked whether the corporation would be willing to let the state mediation body sit in on negotiations, Mr. Wilson said there would be no objections, though he didn't see how anyone could bridge the gap between the union's demand for a closed shop and the corporation's position that it was not going to operate under a closed shop rule.

"We think that if the CIO wants closed shops in all industry," explained Mr. Wilson, "they should go to congress and have congress pass a law that requires closed shops. Then congress would have its responsibility with the public and with the unions to see that the right obligations and restrictions were put on unions."

It sounds like a trenchant idea for resolving a troublesome issue. Congress, of course, would think a long time before making the closed shop a national policy. The trouble, as one was suggested when asked to comment on the general idea, would be that congress wouldn't pass such a law for fear the Supreme court might uphold it.

PLAYED LIKE A POLITICIAN

When Treasury Secretary Morgenthau said the government should cut a billion dollars from its non-defense budget, taxpayers cheered.

Commentators, looking to the future, observed that Mr. Morgenthau's idea wouldn't get to first base unless backed up immediately by the White House. They remembered having seen trial balloons hoisted and shot down before. They thought Mr. Morgenthau had a fine idea, but they realized that without executive backing the finest idea in the world wouldn't mean a thing. There could be no economy in non-defense spending unless word went down the line that President Roosevelt was in favor of it. The same party machinery that had boosted federal spending would have to un-boost it.

The day after Mr. Morgenthau gladdened the hearts of taxpayers, Rep. Doughton, chairman of the house ways and means committee, and an important cog in the Democratic machinery, blossomed forth with an idea to help save that billion dollars. Did he advocate reduced operations in certain departments? Did he suggest that perhaps the CCC camps no longer were needed? Did he propose that Mr. Roosevelt might abandon a pet project? No. He thought it would be a fine idea to shift the cost of public works and part of the cost of relief to the states. At this writing, Rep. Doughton still is at liberty. He has not been picked up yet on a charge of knocking a good idea in the head, with intent to kill.

THE STARS SAY:

For Wednesday, April 30.

THE ASTRAL intervention on the affairs of this day may manifest in surprising opportunities for increasing profits or cashing in on bold strokes in a new direction by the decisive application of initiative, force and daring to be original in idea and method, backed up by hard work and sound purpose. There may be opposition or treachery to cope with, but with wariness, sagacity and a normal ability to yield in a tight place there should be much gained. In personal affairs there may be similar tactics successfully applied.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year of large opportunities for growth and expansion in a big way and this arising in unexpected manner or through the development of new, bold and constructive methods of doing old as well as new things in an improved way. This may require initiative and audacity and is likely to provoke opposition or hostility of an open as well as subtle way. But vigilance, well organized plans, sound sense and proper ability to manipulate trickery as well as antagonism, may avert a menace also besetting private associations.

A child born on this day should have great constructive ability, being perhaps bold and original to the point of genius. This may attract antagonism and duplicity, with reactions on its inner life and emotions.

THAT "LOW" FEELING IN THE MORNING

Perhaps It's Just a Form of Low Blood Pressure

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
Some people feel good when they get up in the morning and feel fine as the day progresses; others feel terrible when they get up in the morning and get better as the day progresses, and some

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

lucky people feel good in the morning and stay feeling good all day. Most cases of organic disease, as well as functional nervous disease (neurasthenia), belong to the category of those who feel good when they first get up and get worse as the day advances.

A Typical Example
The typical example of the one who feels terrible when he first gets up and gets better as time goes on, is the chronic alcoholic, or the fellow with a hang-over. Another example, however, are the people with certain kinds of low blood pressure. Now, low blood pressure is largely a matter for congratulation. People who have discovered they have a low blood pressure often write me in consternation as to what to do about it, and I invariably tell them to get down on their knees and thank God for it. People with low blood pressure are usually those who live to an advanced age.

There is a peculiar type of low blood pressure, however, which causes symptoms that have been very puzzling. These are the people who have low blood pressure only when they are standing up.

and they are the typical examples of the people who feel badly when they get up in the morning and feel fine as the day goes on. They feel badly because when they get up they have suddenly changed from a recumbent to an erect position. So long as they are recumbent the blood pressure is equalized and they have no sensation. When they get up the blood pressure drops very abruptly and they are liable to have a feeling of fatigue and malaise and a general all-in sensation. As the day wears on, some kind of adjustment takes place—their blood vessels contract somewhat, the blood pressure rises and that is why they feel better as time goes on.

Probable Prevention
It is probable that these symptoms can be prevented by the simple manoeuvre of putting a corset on and binding the legs up with an elastic bandage or with an ordinary bandage. This supports the large veins of the abdomen and legs. It is probable that the low blood pressure in these people is due to lack of efficiency in the veins rather than in the arteries. In the erect position, the blood accumulates there and the heart has no blood to work on and, therefore, the blood pressure drops.

As a matter of fact, the same procedure works in preventing shock in certain kinds of surgical operations. In certain operations on the head, it is customary nowadays to have the patient sit up. This position undoubtedly reduces the shock which is so frequent with this class of patient. In one

by BARRETT WILLOUGHBY

CHAPTER THIRTEEN
"Holiday? But yourself's just intimated that this is no legal holiday." There was a chuckling note in Dynamite's brogue.

"Legal or not," came Jean's hot retort, "the bank is closed. In such case, any court case to Juneau, me fine sea-lawyer, and get the court to rule on it. I'll warrant this fishin' season will be over by the time ye get a decision!"

Since dragged before Jean admitted tersely, "Right. You've caught me napping. I must pay for it. What are your terms, O'Moore?"
"Ye heard 'em yesterday. Do your canin' ashore; sell me the hull of the Glory. Then ye'll get every fish the O'Moore fleet nets
this season."

"Impossible. Every cent. Aunt Jack has tied up in this. We'd lose the first of the season, and—"
"Your aunt's losses are no concern of mine," rasped Dynamite.

"—and you—made a dirty gur-row of my Glory!"

"Listen, Captain! I don't know a thing about the ancient row between you and Aunt Jack; but in the present instance you've got us all wrong. Our plans for the Glory—"

"Belay!" the hall clock began slowly to strike eleven. "I'll give ye one more chance, Reynall. Will ye sell me the Glory's hull—today?"
"I will not."

The clock ceased striking. A long pause. Then the sound of heavy padding being deliberately torn into shreds. "That ends your contract, Reynall. And all business between us."

"Not quite, Captain. You're still pledged to supply my company with fish during the next twenty-four days."

"What—what d'ye mean, young fella?"

"Just this—among the assets of the Bates Company, now owned by Baranov Packers, is a certain contract made last year. It binds Bates to buy fish only from you. But it also binds you to keep his plant supplied to the limit of capacity at all times when fish are running. I mean to hold you to that contract."

Dynamite's laugh boomed out a little too loudly. "Hi! Ho! That contract died last fall when the herring season ended."

"Morally, perhaps it did. But we're adhering strictly to the letter, not the spirit. That contract was filled in on a printed form which reads 'until one year from date.'
That date is the middle of next month. Legally, you're stuck with it, O'Moore."

"Um-m-m-m. I suppose, now, ye have a legal copy of that agreement, all signed and witnessed,
Reynall?"

"You know I haven't. Bates musted you, and left the only signed copy in your hands. But I have the unsigned carbon, with a notation in Bates's handwriting to confirm the existence of the signed document. Do you deny that it exists?"

"Devil a bit. 'Tis in me safe at the moment. But there it stays.
Reynall, till the administrator of the Bates estate calls for it. I recognize no right of yours to demand it."

"I can get an order from the Federal Court in Juneau forcing you to produce it."

"So ye can!" Dynamite's cheerful exclamation hinted of sly, secret knowledge. "But—could ye get it inside of twenty-four days? Try it, Reynall."

Again, silence. Then Dynamite's voice, uncompromising but not unkindly. "Ye've licked, Reynall. Be man enough to admit it and make the best of it. Set up your plant ashore, turn me old ship back to me —and pack fish. Ye have the name of bein' lucky in a tight spot. With luck, and me helpin', ye have a good chance of makin' your pack.
But—try to buck me, and all the luck in the world won't save your bacon. I'm warnin', and I'm advisin' ye fair, me lad."

"Fair!" Jean's tone was one of suppressed fury. "You trick your way out of one just contract, and renew another. You offer me a deal, but only on ruinous conditions, and you threaten me with ruin if I refuse. The devil with such 'fair' methods! They do credit to your early training as a high-banded thief and seal pirate—"

"Belay!" A fist banged an accompaniment to Dynamite's angry roar. "I gave ye a fair chance, and ye flung it back into me teeth. Now, ye insistin' young fool, ye've got a fish war on your hands. A fish war —d'ye know what that means? A fight with no rules, and no quarter.
Once in it, neither law nor luck will save ye."

"Save your breath, O'Moore. You can't scare me with your fish war."
"But I can break ye—and I will!
I'll block ye from buyin' fish anywhere in Alaskan waters. I'll smash ye flat, and take the Glory for—"

"Before you do either, you'll know you've been in a fight. O'Moore, I'm going to put up my pack—aboard
the Glory. What's more, I'll collect, somehow, a just payment on that contract you refuse to honor. Good day, sir."

Sondra had barely time to step aside before Jean strode through the door and slammed it behind him. She darted forward, overtaking him at the head of the stairs.

"Jean! I—I—" Words died at the sight of his blazing eyes, his white set face.

"Well?" he demanded, harshly.
"Is it necessary that you tell me,
as well as show me how little regard you have for—" He checked himself, and then, with the air of one grasping at a forlorn hope, went on eagerly. "But maybe you didn't go to the cupola last night,
so you didn't hear me explain—"

"I went. I was there, Jean, but—"
"That's enough!" She shrunk from his cold vehemence. "Your grandfather has just called me a fool. I seem to have been one—about you. But I've learned plenty today about O'Moore tactics, and O'Moore trickery."

He brushed past her and went running down the stairs.

Sondra turned and flung herself into the sitting room where her grandfather sat sipping his small, scarred hands over the model of the Glory. He grinned up at her from under the puckish slant of his white brows.

"Hoh, darlin'! Ye missed the fireworks. I've just sent the Reynall cub scuddin' off with his ooliers rumblin' and pitch fair bollin'
from his geck seams. Faith, Sondra, ye should have seen the face of him
when I tore up that villainous contract he thought he had me stuck with. 'Cash or certified check, says
I. And he helpless to get either with the bank closed!' He threw back his silvery head and roared with laughter."

Sondra, saying nothing, regarded him with mingled admiration and disapproval.

"Fit to be tied, he was, Sondra; and hollerin' 'foul tactics!' As if I could help it if Jarvis decided to board the Tanya and go strip-fishin'
on the birthday of Alexander Baranov."

Sondra's innate honesty rose above her rage at Reynall. "But this isn't Baranov's birthday, Dynamite." Then, she pointed an accusing finger at her exuberant grandfather. "Look here, lamb! I just remembered—I heard you phoning

Mr. Jarvis yesterday about going fishing. Do you think that was quite —well, ethical?"

"Ethical be darned! Have they been ethical with me? Look down there at the thing they've made of the Glory! Do ye call that—" He slumped suddenly in his chair, his violence gone, and passed a hand wearily over his eyes. When he spoke again his voice was husky with emotion. "She's me old ship, Sondra. And she has a soul—the soul of a fine, high-strung woman."

"Would tear the old heart out of me to leave her there, soiled and mishandled, the summer through.
And I'd break some Commandments—aye, and some heads—rather than pile more shame on her with the catch of me nets."

"I know how it is, lamb." In quick sympathy Sondra reached over and patted his shoulder, then her arm dropped listlessly. All at once she felt depressed and helpless, caught up in an impossible situation. "But —how will a fish war help? Won't they just go ahead getting herring from some other—"

"From where?" The frosty light had come back to the Captain's eyes. "From Swanson or Thomas?
No. From the few independent boats scattered along the coast?"

No—not after word goes out that Dynamite Danny O'Moore wouldn't like it. When then—and they with no fleet of their own?"

"There's the Indian fleet, lamb."
He snorted. "A bunch of leaky old crates! Not one dares stick its nose into anything rougher than a millpond. Besides, the natives never did learn how to fish herring by modern methods. And 'tis only when a big school works into some sheltered gunk-hole that they're able to do anything with their out-of-date gear and methods."

"But suppose a lot of fish did gather in such places this season—"

COLUMBIANA, April 29.—W. H.
Matthews, Salem orchardist, was the guest speaker Monday at the meeting of the Columbiana Rotary club at Valley Golf club, using the subject, "Migrations." He told of many migrations from country to the "pursuit of happiness," touching on the reasons for travel. Chiefly these were: religious freedom; freedom from oppression;

freedom from military service; the desire of European poor to own land; adventure; search for gold;
political or debt prisoners freed from prison; slavery; the westward trick of the Indians and early pioneers and the modern migrations of

The new flexible-heat oven

meats the flavorful way mas-

low temperature way.

Why pay for meat you never eat? Low temperature roasting with the new C/P oven cuts meat shrinkage as much as one-fifth. Roasted the modern low temperature way, meats retain more of the savory juices and health-building qualities than when roasted at higher temperatures. Then too—and every thrift-minded homemaker will be interested in this—with low temperature roasting, cheaper cuts of meat may be cooked to the same delicious, juicy tenderness as more expensive cuts. And that's not all! By eliminating temperature variations, the new automatic oven heat control prevents waste due to unappetizing undercooked or burned meats.

A dinner was held last evening at the Lape hotel in honor of the 1940 class of National Farm Youth Foundation members, an extension course in farm engineering and management sponsored by Ferguson-Sherman Mfg. Corp., with the active co-operation of Henry Ford and Edsel Ford and directed by Loudon Motor Sales, local Ford Tractor dealer.

Those who received their diplomas include Fred Deldrick, Roy Morris, Harold Johns, Lee Vincent, Delbert Thomas, John Shivers, and Raymond Bartholow.

Following the dinner a short talk was given by Donald Foss, representing the Farmers National bank. Next year's program was discussed in full by R. J. Walton, director of local N. F. Y. F. classes. A. J. Loudon of Loudon Motor Sales at Hanoverton presided at the meeting.

Theatre Attractions

A new musical comedy, "Las Vegas Nights," will be the attraction Wednesday only at the State Theatre. The last showings of the Bob Hope-Bing Crosby comedy, "The Road to Zanzibar," with Dorothy Lamour, will be given Tuesday and Wednesday.

The picture "Nevada" city that "never sleeps" is the background of the story. A rendezvous of pleasure-seeking crowds from California and other states find the town a lively place since Nevada laws allow gambling, with no curfew for night-spots and gambling casinos.

The cast is headed by Constance Moore and Phil Regan, and features Lillian Cornell, Virginia Dale, Tommy Dorsey and his band, Bert Wheeler and young Betty Brewer.

The Grand's double feature Wednesday includes: A new Cisco Kid western adventure, "Ride On, Vaquero," with Cesar Romero as the Kid, Chris Pin-Martin as his partner, Mary Beth Hughes, Robert Lowery, Lynne Roberts, and Ben Carter; and "Here Comes Happiness," with Mildred Coles, Edward Norris, Richard Ainley, Russell Hicks, and Marjorie Gaten.

One jump ahead of the U. S. cavalry, the Cisco Kid tangles with desperadoes, rescues his closest friend from their clutches and recovers the ransom money, with the help of the cafe entertainer who likes his exciting life.

The second feature is the story of an heiress who finds that her wealth bars her from real friends and happiness, and sets out to do something about it.

LITTLE CHATS ON PUBLIC NOTICES

By J. E. Pollard, Journalism Professor, Ohio State University

In Ye Olden Time
In a rusted copy of the Boston Gazette of Monday, Oct. 18, 1773, is a quaint notice in the lower right hand corner of the front page. Well preserved for its age, it reads as follows:

All persons that have any demands on the estate of Mr. John Goldsmith, late of Boston, chocolate-grinder, deceased; and all those who are indebted to said estate are desired to settle the same with Hepzibah Goldsmith, sole executrix to said estate.

N. B. She carries on the business of chocolate grinding, where the former customers and others may be supplied at the cheapest rate.

This simple and somewhat amusing notice appeared in the Gazette, published by the famous printers, Edes and Gill. It was the organ of Sam Adams, who has been called the first American propagandist, and his crowd. On the back page of this same issue is another and different kind of notice, addressed "To the PUBLIC." Signed "Prædicius," it went on at great length to discuss the new tax which was soon to arouse the colonists.

Times have changed and the names and events of those days are largely relegated to the history books. But the dependence of our legal system upon the public notice is as great as ever. The underlying principle today is the same as it was in the time of Hepzibah Goldsmith: To protect the rights of the individual or of society and to put all persons "on notice" whose rights are affected. It is important that such notices be used in all cases where the law provides for them, especially where the law stipulates or permits notice by publication in a newspaper of general circulation. This is the best general guarantee that such notices will be seen by those concerned.

Quintet Sentenced
GEORGETOWN, April 29.—Guilty pleas brought 10 to 25-year sentences for five Cincinnati youths charged with armed robbery, automobile larceny and resisting and abusing an officer in connection with the handcuffing of a state highway patrolman and the theft of his cruiser April 14. The five were Harry Backherms, Joseph Crawford, William Kloss, Jack Trusty and Raymond Meyers.

Freed In Shooting
WARREN, April 29.—Police released all but one of 55 men and women who had been loaded into the patrol wagon and hauled to the police station Monday from a flats district cafe after Lucille Caffie, 20, was shot in the hip.

A 20-year-old youth, found to have powder burns on his trousers, police said, is being held.

Back on the Job with Bills All Paid

A YOUNG MACHINIST had just returned to full time work when suddenly he was bombarded with bills demanding payment of past due accounts. He sized up the situation, took out a loan, and paid up everything. He earned discounts for full settlement and had money left over to buy new clothes for himself and family. Now, less than one-tenth of his income is paying off his loan without a hitch.

"Better see me for cash rather than jeopardize your job."

Cope Predicts Large Entry List For Salem Night Relays

LEADING STATE, DISTRICT TEAMS TO BE IN ACTION

Outstanding School Stars Taper Off For Saturday Contests

Salem High school will be host to other Ohio High schools Saturday for the 12th annual running of the Salem Night relays, one of the foremost events of the track season in the state every year. One of the largest entry lists in the history of the meet is expected, according to Fred Cope, manager of the meet which will be held at Reilly stadium.

Teams already entered are Salem, Fremont, Ross, Toledo Scott, Lakewood, Cleveland East Tech, Alliance, Plainfield, Barberton, Louisville, Struthers, Akron Coventry, Mingo Junction, Lisbon, and Youngstown Rayen. Of these schools, Lakewood, Plainfield, and Akron Coventry are new entries.

A number of other schools are expected to enter the meet and among them are Boardman, Massillon, Akron East, Akron Buchtel, Akron Central, Akron West, Akron South, Akron Garfield, Akron North, Warren, Erie Strong Vincent, Lorain, Cleveland Shaker Heights, Sharon, Ravenna, Elyria, East Palestine and Wellsville.

Jesse Owens to Run
As a special attraction, Jesse Owens, famed Negro Olympic star, will attempt to set a new record in one of the dash events or in the broad jump. Also on the program will be Martin Matyas, 11-year-old pole-vaulter star from Warren, who will give an exhibition.

The Cleveland East Tech squad, winner of the night relays for the past two years, is the favorite again this year, because of its position as defending champion and also because the Tech trackers won the Mansfield relays two weeks ago against tough competition.

However, with a number of other outstanding teams entered, such as Toledo Scott, Erie Strong Vincent, Akron Garfield, Akron North, Akron Buchtel, Akron West, Fremont, Ross, Lorain and several others, a close race for the winning trophy is expected.

The preliminaries and semi-finals for 15 of the 17 events on the meet program will be run off in the afternoon, starting at 2:30, and the finals at 7:30. Both preliminaries and finals for the shot put and discus will be completed in the afternoon.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By EDDIE BRIETZ.

NEW YORK, April 29.—(The Special News Service).—More than half of the guys on Snorty Luster's Oklahoma U. grid squad are looking for their draft numbers to go up. . . . Did you know that the only time Whirlaway whipped Our Boots in four tries last year was the only race in which "The Boots" wasn't ridden by either Carroll Bierman or Eddie Arcaro? . . . New York boxing commission is listing fighters who are consistent losers and will revoke their licenses. Yep, a heap of small fry managers are mighty indignant and are getting ready to go on relief. . . . First serious football casualty is Steve Juzwick, Notre Dame's high scorer last year, who broke an arm in scrimmage the other day.

Today's Guest Star

Ralph Allen, Toronto Globe and Mail: "Can it be the International league is going dramatic on us? . . . Jersey City's Saturday battery reads: 'East, Lynn and Blaemire.' . . . Next week: 'Uncle Tom's Cabin.'"

Gadding About

Harry Stuhldreher already has picked Minnesota to win the Big Ten football title again this year, with Northwestern and Ohio State second and third. . . . Columbia is looking for someone to fill the role of Forest Evashevski in the forthcoming movie, "Tom Harmon of Michigan." Well, Ed Trevor of the Broadway hit, "Lady in the Dark," is a dead ringer for Evashevski in the face, anyway. . . . Each of the 15 rooms in Joe Louis' ranch house boasts a juke box. But that's nothing. When King Levinsky trained at "Peg's Haunted House" in Chicago he won his 1935 bout with Louis, the joint sported 50 slot machines.

What's the Big Idea?

The other day you read that Bobby Riggs, our No. 2 ranking tennis player, had been appointed assistant publicity director at Presbyterian college down in South Carolina. . . . Well, Art Cohn, our No. 1 gum shoe man on the coast, reports that three years ago the U. S. L. T. A. wanted to send Frankie Kovacs to Presbytery.

People and Things

Elmer Layden will open his new pro football office in the same Chicago building that houses baseball's American league. . . . Aurel Toma, Rumanian-born bantamweight, has run afoul of the immigration authorities at Tia Juana. . . . Those in the know say Eddie Shokes, Duke's first baseman, has definitely passed up the Yanks for the Reds. . . . The boys out in the big house at Joliet have made and presented to Ted Lyons a lamp shaped from a tennis racket in a rock base. . . . Johnny Quilty of the Montreal Canadiens will be presented with the Frank Calder cup, awarded annually to the outstanding rookie of the National Hockey league, at a banquet at Ottawa May 8. . . . Bob Pastor is golfing at Saratoga Springs.

One-Minute Interview

Dizzy Dean: "There's been some talk about what I'm a-throwin' this year. . . . Well, I got a slow ball that so slow the infielders can come in and autograph it before it gets to the plate. . . . Then the batter's a-swingin' at a souvenir."

Tonight's Fight Winners

Buddy Walker to outbox Buddy Knox at Columbus. . . . Harry Jeffra to win as he pleases over Al Brown at Wilkes-Barre.

INDIANS HIT PEAK WITH 3 STRAIGHT WINS OVER TIGERS

Red-Hot Redskins Meet Lowly Athletics; Al Smith to Pitch

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, April 29.—The Cleveland Indians' pennant stock rose to its annual spring peak today as the red-hot Redskins aimed their tomahawks at the humble Philadelphia Athletics.

Three consecutive victories over the champion Tigers put the Tribe in first place and the fans in a title mood. Al Milnar completed the Detroit rout yesterday by beating the Bengals 7 to 2 on six-hit pitching.

Southpaw Al Smith, who has given up only two runs in two games, drew the task of getting Cleveland off on the right foot against the eastern invaders. Connie Mack named Buck Ross.

Manager Roger Peckinpaugh said Jeff Heath would play left field until Gerry Walker, who strained his back in the final Detroit game, is able to return. Beau Bell will remain in right field.

Pitching Roster
Peckinpaugh also announced his tentative pitching lineup for the rest of the week. Jim Bagby will hurl tomorrow with Bob Feller closing the Philadelphia series on Thursday. Mel Harder and Milnar are expected to pitch the Boston games Friday and Saturday.

Little Roy Weatherly, fleet Cleveland center fielder, was the gunner in the Cleveland attack. He got two hits and drove in three runs, his sixth-inning single cleaning the bases. The unusual sight of three runners scoring on a one-base hit resulted from a three-to-two count on Roy. With two men out, all the runners got started on the pitch.

Two walks, a wild pitch, an error and Ray Mack's single routed Harold Newhouse in the seventh inning and gave the Indians three more runs. They had opened runnng production in the fourth on Bell's triple and an infield out. Successive doubles by Pinky Higgins and Tuck Stainback gave Detroit its first run in the fifth and two innings later Hank Greenberg doubled and scored on two infield outs.

BOWLING RESULTS

The Burt Capel Realtors hung up three in a row over the Colonial Finance in the Quaker City league last night at Grate's and climbed into a second-place tie with the Financers.

The Althouse Motors, winning two from Flooding & Reynard, remained out in front. The Coy Buicks, although losing two to the Salem Motors, remained in an eighth-place deadlock with the Golden Eagles, who lost two to C. B. Hunt. The Huntsmen moved into fourth place, Flooding & Reynard dropping into a fifth-place tie with the Masons.

The Masons copped three from Lape Hotel and the Moose an equal number from the Bachelors via forfeit.

The Flooding & Reynard-Althouse match developed four scores in the 400 class. H. Albright of the Drug-gists collected a 210 in his first game. For the Motors, Willis cracked out a 230, Grate a 223 and Althouse an even 200.

Carpenter of the Masons turned in a 225 and M. Thomas a 205 in that set, while Huffer of the Colonial Finance recorded a series of 192, 214 and 213 against the Capel Realtors. For the latter team, D. Miller clouted out a 215.

Reds, Standing Still While Other Clubs Improve, Lose To Dodgers' Fighting Spirit

BY JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cincinnati Reds last year were world champions, and they may be again, but it must be said at this early date that other teams have improved while the Reds have remained stationary.

The champs came East yesterday and bumped into the Brooklyn Dodgers, one of the National league's improved clubs. Their clash was a battle of titans, but the Dodgers emerged with their seventh successive victory, 3-2, and took over first place in the senior circuit, while the Reds were left languishing in fourth place.

The Reds had good pitching—a six-hit job by their veteran ace, Paul Derringer. They had their customary flawless fielding—including one of the most spectacular catches of the young season when Ival (Poison Ivy) Goodman stood almost against the rightfield fence, 300 feet from the plate, and jumped high to spear a liner in the sixth inning. They had as good an offense as the Dodgers—six hits, including a home run by Buck M. Cormick.

things necessary to the defense program.

Would Change Schedules

"That means," he said, "that one hour out of every four must be taken from the production and manufacture of things we use in our normal every-day life. That means we will either have to get along with fewer of the things to which we are accustomed and which we take for granted, or we must superimpose on our normal economy a 25 per cent increase in our productive capacity — 25 per cent more work hours."

"The latter will be costly, will involve serious fiscal problems and should be avoided if possible."

Calling for the fullest cooperation in implementing the aid-to-democracies program, Jones said:

"We have chosen our course and should not waste too much time over road maps."

"We do not want to get in the war, now, a year hence, or ten years hence. And it has been decided by our duly elected representatives, the President and the Congress, that the best way to insure against getting in is to give all possible aid to those countries which are fighting to preserve their independence and our way of life."

REDS, STANDING

But the Dodgers had that "zing" that challengers sometimes get and champions eventually lose.

Whitlow Wyatt, near 31 years of age and getting bald, struck out 10 of the champs and held them to six hits, too. When McCormick's homer put the Reds in front, the Dodgers had what it took to get back in front—a single by Jim Wasdell and a home run by Alex Kampouris, who led the International league in circuit-swapping last year. When the Reds tied the score through Ernie Natal Lombardi's triple in the seventh, the Dodgers had what was needed to win in the ninth—a single with two on by old Whit Wyatt himself.

The Reds haven't skidded, but to finish 12 games in front of the Dodgers last year they had to win 41 games by one run and Brooklyn had to fall into a lot of trouble like Joe Medwick's beaning, Harry Lavagetto's appendicitis operation, Wyatt's core arm and Peewee Reese's broken heel bone.

You can bet that the fighting is going to be a lot fiercer this year. The St. Louis Cardinals are in the middle of it, also. They were idle yesterday, along with the rest of the league but today were to open their eastern swing against the third-place New York Giants.

The American league action has switched to the West. While the Eastern teams were traveling yesterday, the Cleveland Indians reinforced their grip on first place by drubbing the Detroit Tigers, 7-2. The Chicago White Sox moved into a third-place tie with a 2-1 edge over the St. Louis Browns.

FARM MEASURE IN SENATE IS KILLED

000; Miami and Ohio university, $160,000 each; Kent $100,000, and Bowling Green $60,000.

The house passed, and returned to the senate for action on amendments, a bill granting immunity to taxpayers who did not make complete returns from 1926 to 1931 on personal property even though they failed to obtain immunity certificates as required when the original law was enacted in 1931.

The measure was assailed as "class legislation" for the benefit of wealthy owners of stocks and bonds. Rep. Jacob Deutsch (D-Montgomery) argued that Robert A. Taft, now U. S. senator from Ohio, promoted the original act 10 years ago to save a relative from payment of taxes. This was denied by Rep. Walter Tarr (R-Hamilton).

Vote Adjournment Date
After beating down Democrats' demands that the assembly remain in session until the state mine inspection code is revised, the house adopted a resolution to end its working sessions May 8 and adjourn finally May 20.

Majority Leader Harold W. Houston asserted "although it isn't complimentary, 95 per cent of the people of Ohio want the general assembly to adjourn now." The resolution went to the senate where majority leader Frank E. Whittemore said action would be delayed several days until prospects of enacting essential legislation are determined.

The senate commerce and labor committee heard Sen. Harry A. Hughes (D-Butler) declare it is about time we gave a break to the boys in the coal mines.

Hughes was insisting on a vote to recommend for passage his bill providing stricter regulation of mines and setting up additional safeguards.

Action was deferred pending another meeting, late today or tomorrow.

The senate completed action on a resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to abolish elections of unexpired judicial terms of less than a year. The vacancies would be filled by appointment of the governor. The proposed amendment will be submitted to the people for a vote.
